Vocal musical instruction will be given by Mrs. Charlotte Huntley Foster again this year in the following schools: Alvarado, Decoto, Irvington, Mission San Jose, Niles and Newark.

Instrumental instruction, that is band and orchestra direction, will be given by John Kimber in the following schools: Alvarado, Alviso, Decoto, Irvington, Mission San Jose, Niles and Warm Springs.

Miss Inez Silva will have charge of the vocal music for Centerville and Lincoln schools. Mr. George E. Ebert will be the instrumental instructor at Centerville.

Principals for the schools are: Mrs. Hattie Douglas, Lincoln. T. S. Van't Hof, Alvarado. Ms. Elsie Madrona, Alviso. Jos. Dias, Centerville. Allison Peacock, Decoto. A. D. Cunningham, Irvington. Mrs. Reid, Mission San Jose. E. D. Bristow, Niles. E. H. L. Musick, Newark.

Miss Nila Laque will be the new primary teacher at the Mission San Jose school.

Miss Elinor Jack will be the new teacher at the Niles school, taking the place of Miss Mary Bailey who has gone to Virginia on business matters.

Principal Bristow of the Niles school will give out a statement later to The Register with regard to the opening of the school. In the meantime he urges all parents to make a special effort to have pupils enroll on the opening day. Several improvements have been made in the Niles building during the vacation, including a new roof, a new office for the principal and enlargement of the ladies' rest room.

Principal Dias of the Centerville school states that Miss Gene Rose Maloney and Miss Hickey are the two new teachers who will help inaugurate the departmental plan in the school this year. All grades except the first two will have departmental work, this meaning that teachers will go from room to room instructing in their respective line of instruction and giving the pupils a "mixed diet" of instructors. Some junior high school work will be done in the 7th and 8th grade classes this year, teachers being of Junior high school standards, states Principal Dias.

Those who went into their respective offices were as follows:—Past Grand President, Jane Carey; President, Gertrude Keller; First Vice President, Colton Roland; Second Vice President, Irene Dominici; Third Vice President, Leona Fleming; Marshall, Mildred Roland; Inside Sentinel, Belle Cahill; Outside Sentinel, Mla Easday; Treasurer, Mae Moore; Secretary, Ethel Foulmer; and Corresponding Secretary, Mae Banard. After the installation there was a banquet and reception for the incoming officers.

MRS. D. E. LORD WINS FIRST PRIZE

Recently, Mrs. D. E. Lord, of Uniontown Park, Calif., well and favorably known in this locality, and a niece of Mrs. Ernest Martin of Niles, was awarded first prize, ($25.00) in the Huntington Park Signal's letter contest in "Why Should I spend my money in Huntington Park." In a later issue we will endeavor to print the letter entire, but space and time forbids in this issue.

COMMUNICATED

"Axe an' hoe and singletree:
An' my honey's a-bakin' of the bread for me;
An' I sing an' I work while ther's light fer to see—
For my honey's a-keepin' of the home for me;
An' my heart's right there where it wants to be—
For my honey's waitin' with a kiss for me."

It won't be long now until the hardest thing our aviators will have to do will be to find some place to go.

COUNTRY NEWSPAPER GETS RESULTS

Country newspapers form the backbone of a successful advertising campaign whereby the Pacific Gas and Electric Company in a period of eight weeks sold Three Hundred and Eighty nine electric ranges. Learning that there was a ready market for the sale of electric ranges in a territory heretofore not aggressively canvassed by the company or the dealers we outlined a program to reach rural consumers and offered to them an opportunity to purchase modern electric cooking equipment thru the company for a small payment down and with easy monthly payments, says J. Charles Jordan, Publicity Manager of the Company.

"Our first problem was to secure a medium thru which we could successfully get our message to the prospective buyers quickly and at a medium cost—the weekly newspapers proved to be best fitted for this purpose. Seventy were selected and a series of eight advertisements of 3 column 10 inches each were run. Supplementing these some direct mail literature and local window displays were used. So successful was this selling campaign that another sale is planned to be conducted during the months of September and October featuring another make of range."

"The country newspaper can be used effectively as a part of any well organized selling campaign. For the successful local merchant it is indispensable."

CHURCH NEWS

It was with evident enjoyment that attendants of the Niles Congregational Church, gathered last Sunday for the opening service of the year. The sermon theme for the morning was based on the words of Jesus, "I must do the works of Him who sent me, while it is yet day, for the night cometh when no man can work." The minister pointed out that work was one of the indispensable laws of life and likewise one of life's richest blessings. "To be physically sound and healthy," he stated, "we must exercise. Likewise, to be spiritually healthy we must have exercise, work in spiritual enterprises." The call was one for work in the church during the coming year.

A noticeable increase in the attendance at church school was also noted and there it was voted to hold Rally Day on Sunday, August 28th.

On Friday evening at 4:00 p. m. all officers of the Church School, Guild and Church are invited to attend a meeting to plan for Rally Day in the church. The meeting will be held at the church.

With the approval of last Sunday's congregation Rev. and Mrs. Seebart have decided to try living in an apartment at Berkeley where Rev. Seebart attends school. The family will have a furnished apartment at 2209 Cedar Street. They will have the parsonage at Niles furnished so that the entire family, as well as the pastor, may spend week ends at Niles. The move, as yet, is not a permanent one, as it is not certain that the results will be all that is desired. Rev. Seebart will be in Niles on week ends the same as last year.

ATTACK ON MAN IS MYSTERY

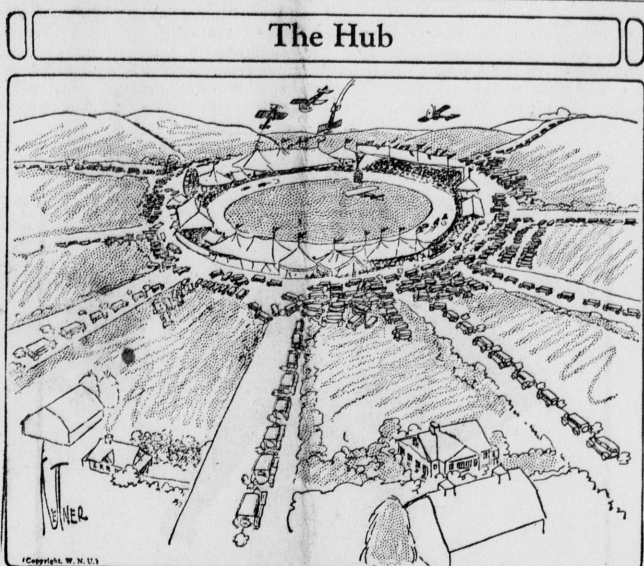

John Ronte, a Centerville baker, was found in a dazed condition in a Niles alley early Monday morning, unable to give an account of the circumstances that left him with a scalp wound, a swollen jaw and his left leg apparently semi-paralyzed. He was taken to Dr. Charles H. Law for treatment. It is believed that he had been mistaken for someone else and hit on the head with a blunt instrument. Ronte is not known to have any enemies.

SCHOOL OPENING MAY BE DELAYED

MISSION SAN JOSE, Aug. 17.—Thousands of tons of grapes which are ripening in the vicinity of Mission San Jose may cause the board of trustees of the local grammar school to postpone its opening for two weeks so that many of the children may assist their parents in the harvest. The fall term is scheduled to open Monday.

NILES CAMPFIRE GIRLS BRING HOME HONORS

Fascinating glimpses into the woody life of Camp Minkola, high in the Sierras, where Niles Campfire Girls of Tolahia Group recently spent two weeks, are given by the guardian, Mrs. J. E. Townsend who accompanied the girls. Her account of a day in camp is quoted in full below, having been written especially for Township Women.

And we might say parenthetically that Mrs. Townsend herself is looking hale and hearty after her stay in the open and while she isn't yet a candidate for Barnum's fat lady, still she brought back a pound or two extra avoirdupoise or appearances belle it.

CAMP MINKOLA

By Mrs. J. E. Townsend

"Morning reveille, splash of cold water into sleepy eyes, scamper into clothes and ready for setting up exercises, salute to the flag, breakfast of fruit, cereal, hot corn bread, muffins, or something equally as good. Thus started the day."

"Then the rush for bed-making, bags all strapped as if we were starting on a journey, shoes with laces tied neatly at the top, toes pointed out; disorder of any sort taking off points galore."

"Morning sing next in order in some shady nook where girlish voices rose in harmony to greet the morning sky. Most of the words of the songs were written by girls who had spent former summers at wonderful Minkola."

"Then the busy day started—handicraft, nature lore, archery, every one busy as a bee."

"Hearty luncheon at noon, every one happy and hungry. Singing at the table helps digest the food. Smiling faces everywhere! Councilors heaping up plates, 'grace' said, then the clink, clank, clank of knives and forks, cups and plates."

"Rest hour, silence and quiet sleep coming quickly to tired girls. Then quiet hour for letters home, talks, laughing and chattering with one another."

"First aid, swimming, horseback riding, next in order."

"Five-fifteen, soap and hair brushes! Clean white middles. Neat ties."

"Dinner hour. Girls working for special honors gathering wood for the evening fire when stories and songs made nine-thirty come all too soon."

TAPS

"Day is done
Gone the sun
From the lake
From the hills
From the sky.
All is well.
Safely rest,
God is nigh!"

"So ends a perfect day at Minkola."

"Sunday morning's short services held. Poems read concerning the beauties of nature around us every where inspiring us with noble thoughts, longings for better and better things above man's everyday life."

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MEET AND EAT, TUESDAY

A GREAT ORGANIZER WITH ADORING HELPERS

Following is an excerpt from a very interesting letter received from a friend of the publisher of the Township Register, who recently attended services in Los Angeles, presided over by Almee McPherson:

"Last evening, (Sunday,) was my first opportunity to study her. Went to the Temple, arriving at 6 p. m. Lucky to get a seat away back in lower gallery. Crowds turned away and listened outside in Echo Park. Amplifiers carry words perfectly. This morning the paper stated that a bomb was found near the door. I wonder why?"

"We were well entertained. A tall light house, painted stencily behind it; toy ships on the sea; sailor costumes and caps; uniformed choir; silver band; solo by operatic star; and other stunts."

"Almee! An Amazon woman general, with a perfectly organized army of adoring helpers. She wore the uniform of all women Crusaders, only her tie was white instead of black. She wore military epaulets on the shoulders of her cape and a rear-admiral's cap. Her cape was lined with red. Perfect poise and self confidence. Her voice ranges from deep bass tones to the lilt of bird songs. She strikes every tone between these extremes. And the energy and push behind every word and gesture. Her endurance without fatigue is the proof of her Amazonian physique and spirit."

"Almee keeps quite humble and unselfish. As long as she can stay so, she is safe."

"As for the message she puts over. It does no harm and much good. Her way of getting results is not my way; but I carry only my own weight. She leads thousands. Because I have no appetite I will not tip over the table nor spoil the food other folks desire. I am merely learning how to be great, by studying great personalities."

WARNING VETERANS

Warning World War veterans of California against "any eagerness to convert their bonus certificates into cash and then forget all about it," Dr. John F. Slavich, state commander of the American Legion has called attention to the fact that more than 6,000 former soldiers who borrowed on their bonus certificates have failed to redeem them at their banks.

The defaulted certificates have been turned in to the U. S. Veterans Bureau and have been paid in full to the banks, according to Slavich.

"The American Legion has made a strenuous campaign to protect the ex-service men against 'loan sharks' and it is just as important that those who have borrowed from the banks of the country fulfill their obligations and see to it that they do not forfeit their certificates," Commander Slavich says.

One glance at the calendar above will indicate that already the stir of fall activities can be found among the various circles of Township women. Vacations are either over or rapidly drawing to a close and the

The meeting of the Niles Chamber of Commerce last Tuesday was the smallest in numbers present for a long time since, one of the "Call-up" committee being out of town, was given as a possible reason for the few in attendance. Nevertheless, it was an enjoyable affair in a social way, and some business of minor importance was transacted.

Members present gave cordial welcome to Secretary Bristow, who returned from his ranch last Saturday, and will continue to faithfully serve the august body above mentioned.

A motion by Dr. Morrison, and seconded by E. W. McPherson, to have the secretary request "the powers that be" to place a "Niles" sign at each end of town; also, a "20 mile hour limit," carried without a dissenting voice.

Mayor Jones announced that Mr. Ford had informed him that ground for the new library building would be broken Wednesday and work on the new edifice would be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible. Mr. Ford also stated that after viewing the plans of the architect it was decided that the cost of the building, when completed, with interior furnishings of about $3000, would approximately be $25,000, instead of $20,000, as had been previously announced.

A bill for $9.50 for balance due in recent beauty contest, was ordered paid, by vote of members present.

KRAFT WINS FROM MANHATTAN INN

Drawing a large crowd of enthusiastic rooters, the Kraft Cheese ball team staged a snappy comeback, over their loss of a week ago Sunday, winning from a much faster team to the tune of 3 to 5.

Both teams played fast and hard ball, keeping the onlookers in a state of excitement from the beginning of the first to the end of the last inning, holding the score down to 33, until the last of the eighth, when the Kraft team took the lead scoring two runs, much credit is due Dutra and Brazil for their fine pitching in this game.

A good crowd is expected Sunday when we play Berkeley Mfgs. Come, make yourself at home and enjoy a good ball game. Everybody welcome.

K. H. LEASH, Manager.

SURPRISE PARTY

Miss Della Dennis was the guest of honor at a surprise party given at the Community Church in Decoto recently by 21 of her friends in celebration of her 16th birthday. The affair was also in the nature of a farewell party as Miss Dennis is to make her home in Hayward. She will be missed from the Christian Endeavor activities and social affairs of the neighborhood.

YOUNG WOMEN MAY KEEP WELL

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound
Here is Proof

St. Paul, Minn.—"Here is a little advice I would like to have you put in the papers," Mrs. Jack Lorberter of 704 Dellwood Place wrote to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company. "If young women want to keep their health and strength for the next thirty years of their lives, it is best to start in right now and take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have tried the Compound myself and received fine results from its use." In describing her condition before taking the Compound, she writes, "I was afraid in my own house in broad daylight, I used to lock the doors and pull down the shades so that nobody could see me." One day a booklet advertising the Vegetable Compound was left on her porch and she read it through. In so doing, she found a letter from a woman whose condition was similar to her own. "I bought Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound," Mrs. Lorberter continued, "and have had fine results. My condition made me a burden to my husband. Now I ask him, 'How is housekeeping?' and he says, 'It is just like being in Heaven!' Are you on the Sunlit Road to Better Health?"

Stella Mayhew was talking about other days on Broadway.
"I'll never forget the first time I ever saw my name in lights," said the veteran. I got right up in that hack and applauded myself."—Variety.

The United States is using 70,000,000 pounds of artificial silk made from wood each year.

Some men's honesty is due to the inexpensiveness thereof.

SATIN FROCKS FOR AUTUMN; COLORFUL VELVET CHAPEAUX

NOT in fashion's realm will "silver and gold have I none" be voiced, for early arriving autumn frocks gleam with touches of not only gold and silver, but of copper, steel, brass and, yes, tin if you please. It is a fact, some genius has devised an extremely novel trimming which accomplishes a handsome effect by riveting bits of tin over multi-colored strands of silk.

Autumn's style horoscope is proclaiming the metal vogue in no uncertain terms. Imagine such a frock as this, and it is, to say the least, "perfectly stunning"—black satin one-

At last, judging from the "advance guard" of millinery for fall, we are going to have some hats that are really different, so that when we go strolling down the street we are not going to have the feeling that every other hat we come face to face with is first cousin to the one we have on. In other words fashion is doing little tricks of decoration here and there that are making millinery decidedly more feminine and taking it out of the realm of monotony.

Interesting variety is achieved in a number of different ways. Just take a look at the upper left hat which piece model studded all over with steel nailheads which are riveted into the very fabric. At the proper waistline a belt is simulated by working in gold metal nailheads, in solid form. The effect is thrilling, and presents a season of fascinating revelations in the way of metallic embellishment.

The picture shows the enlivening effect of metal embroidery on black satin. Seams as if black crepe satin frocks are crowding the style stage in numbers greater than ever. A surprising quota gleam with unique and exceedingly handsome touches of metal, after the manner of this illustration.

Dressy afternoon ensembles of black velvet are also written in the book of fashion—and their appearance will not be deferred until late fall, for nowadays velvet is so sheer and supple it lays claim to being an all-year-round fabric. Owing to its suppleness velvet is indulging in any amount of shirring. Often the skirt fullness is accomplished in this way. In harmony with the trend toward metal decoration, the blouse, preferably of white or flesh georgette, is embroidered in gold and silver paillettes.

There is also a discreet use of comes from the studios of the famous French creator, Madame Agnes. She deftly takes two strips of harmonizing velvet in the colors of wild rose and siltine, cuts them with large saw-tooth edges which just match when sewn together; and then shirrs these joinings so that when pressed down they give the exact effect of crushed roses.

Then the hat in the center introduces a new idea which comes from the clever fingers of Eliane. This is of "buccaneer" red velvet which is very finely stitched in unique diamond and diagonal patterns.

In the hat at the upper right Eliane gives us a sample of entirely different type of stitching and shirring in a hat which is more formal and made of silk velvet in the color called "Mother Goose." The unique shirring effect is carried on to the crown tip; and as this hat is worn well down on the neck and tipped back, it gives a very interesting effect.

Madame Georgette gives a touch of something different again in the hat at the lower left, which is along cloche lines of black velvet with an applique design of white appearing al-

KNOWLEDGE OF FITTING FOR HOME SEWER

Careful Fitting Insures Satisfaction in One's Sewing.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Care in fitting a garment, whether homemade or ready-made, helps to determine its appearance and the way it wears. Badly fitted clothing pulls and gives at the wrong points and is a source of continual dissatisfaction. Much time may be wasted trying to remedy the trouble. A well-fitted, appropriate, becoming suit or dress will give its wearer a look of distinction and trimness.

Commercial patterns are planned for ideal figures, and must almost always be altered to fit the individual user. The bureau of home economics believes, therefore, that a knowledge of fitting is fundamental for the home sewer, and has prepared directions by which time and material may be saved when adapting commercial patterns or ready-made clothing to the individual.

Advantage of Dress Form.

The dress form is an advantage in making dresses, especially for the woman who must do her own fitting. She can study the lines best suited to her figure, regulate the length of the skirt and other parts accurately, and determine most of the changes that may be necessary. The final test of the fit of a costume should be made while sitting. It should be perfectly comfortable and no unsightly wrinkles should develop in this position.

In the illustration may be especially noted the tape that marks the so-called waistline from which the length of the coat and skirt may be measured. This is lowered or raised according to the dictates of fashion or to suit the individual figure. As it is a horizontal line it should not be placed so as to divide the garment into two equal parts. The length of the coat and skirt will be determined by style as well as by the height, weight and figure of the individual.

Freedom of Movement.

A well-fitted garment allows freedom of movement without being too large, and is free from unnecessary wrinkles and folds. The general style of the garment determines whether the fitting should be snug, easy, or loose. Garments fitted moderately loose are best suited to large figures, for tightness emphasizes the curves and makes the figure appear larger. Make any garment too loose rather than too snug. Allow for shrinkage of the fabric when it is cleaned. Under-arm seams and center front and back threads of any garment are always perpendicular to the floor. The skirt hangs straight without swinging to the front or to the back. When fitting a garment try the seams in different positions, especially those of the shoulder. Study the figure to find the position which will emphasize the best features and conceal those which are not so good. Put the attention on fitting the figure rather than on keeping the lines of the pattern.

GINGHAMS FOR EVERYDAY WEAR

Material Is Satisfactory for School and House.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Gingham is an old-fashioned cotton fabric, but the women of a generation ago did not know gingham in the ten or more varieties to be found on the counters of the department store today. The bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture explains that the common characteristic of all types of gingham is that the yarns are dyed before weaving, or the cotton is dyed before the yarns are spun. This helps to insure fastness of color and produce a fiber dyed throughout. Gingham comes in plain colors, in plaids, checks, stripes, and with novelty figures.

French, Scotch, and zephyr gingham are fine, soft-finished, lightweight materials. They are most satisfactory for school dresses and house dresses, and in the very warm months are used for daytime wear on the street. Pajamas are also being made of these soft gingham this year. Apron checks are usually coarser and more stiff, with the character pattern. Chambray is a plain-colored gingham having a white filling.

Tissue gingham is thinner and more transparent than ordinary gingham. For this reason they are suitable for afternoon dresses and are often made up attractively with organdie. They are especially popular this spring. Many tissue gingham have heavy cords, stripes, or checks, or even embroidered designs in them. These usually wear well, but before purchasing any corded material one should be sure to study the fabric carefully to see whether the cords are firmly held in.

Gingham with large checks about an inch square are new this year. They come in many lovely colors, and among other uses, make excellent summer curtains, in combination with covers for the backs and sides of upholstered chairs.

Left-Overs Are Planned in Advance for Purpose

The only kind of left-overs a good manager has are those planned in advance for a definite purpose, and prepared at one cooking to save fuel. For example, a roast of meat is naturally depended upon in part for cold cooked meat for the next day; part of the cooked vegetables may be preserved for a soup or a salad, if carefully kept. Waste due to spoilage is so unnecessary that it is almost unpardonable. There is a Farmers' Bulletin, 1374-F, on the care of food in the home, which gives many suggestions for protecting foods in special ways to insure their good quality and safe keeping.

Unusual Sandwiches Are Always Gladly Received

Sandwiches that are "different" are always received with enthusiasm, both by those who are obliged to carry lunches in this form more or less regularly, and by those who seldom eat them except at a picnic or social gathering. Dainty thin sandwiches that are neither too filling nor too cloying sweet are appreciated for afternoon tea or for party refreshments, because they do not spoil the appetite for the next meal. Some of the best sandwich spreads for such purposes are made by combining simple materials like parsley, watercress, green peppers, or grated orange peel with butter, the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture suggests. These sandwiches are tasty and also attractive in color. The work of spreading the bread is reduced one-half. Butter and filling are spread thickly on one slice of bread the upper slice does not need spreading. This is a special advantage in preparing large quantities of sandwiches.

When the sandwich material is one of the raw vegetables, it should be finely minced by running it through a food chopper, using the nut knife. Cream the butter at room temperature, but do not allow it to melt, because that changes both the flavor and consistency. Mix equal parts of butter and chopped vegetable and add seasoning—salt, pepper, tabasco, and a few drops of lemon. Some especially good combinations are: watercress, green peppers, parsley with lemon juice, red cabbage with horseradish, which prevents the cabbage from changing color.

A good fruit butter for filling is made by using grated orange rind as the flavoring with a small amount of orange juice.

Fruit Sundaes at Home Particularly Pleasing

French vanilla ice cream is particularly good as a foundation for any sort of fruit "sundae" made at home, with crushed fresh fruit such as strawberries, raspberries, and fresh blackberries. To make French vanilla ice cream, the United States Department of Agriculture gives the recipe below:

1 quart milk	¾ cupfuls sugar
½ pint double cream	¼ teaspoonful salt
4 eggs	1½ teaspoonfuls vanilla

Prepare as for custard by pouring some of the heated milk into the lightly beaten eggs and then cooking the milk and eggs with the sugar and salt in a double boiler until the custard coats the spoon. Cool, add the double cream, and vanilla, mix well, and freeze.

For the freezing mixture use 1 part of salt to 4 or 6 parts of ice. Turn the crank slowly during freezing.

Vermont Honors Her Naval Hero

BATTLESHIP OREGON

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

ALL the New England states, which from the earliest days of American history have sent out her bravest and best to "go down to the sea in ships," Vermont is the only one which does not have a single mile of seacoast. Yet the Green Mountain state gave to the nation two great naval heroes and both did the deeds which gave them enduring fame at a time when the American navy was just beginning to make the United States a world power. The time was the Spanish-American war and the two men were Admiral George Dewey, the hero of Manila bay, and Rear Admiral Charles Edgar Clark, commander of the Oregon in her historic dash around Cape Horn.

Recently the little town of Bradford, Vt., where one of these naval heroes was born, honored the memory of Charles Edgar Clark by erecting in its memorial park a bronze statue of the man who helped make it famous. Several years ago Admiral Clark attended the dedication of Bradford's memorial park as a patriotic shrine for the community, little realizing that a short time after his death his own image in bronze was to be the dominant figure in it. And to a country publisher, Col. Harry E. Parker, editor of the newspaper, United Opinion, at Bradford, belongs the credit for both the memorial park and the Clark statue. It was his initiative which brought into being the park, a little triangle of grass and flowers and trees facing the picturesque Bradford town square, and his devotion to the ideal that his town should honor the men who had brought honor to it which resulted in the erection of the statue at the cost of an unlimited amount of work on his part, as head of the Bradford Memorial association, and the outlay of a considerable sum from his own personal funds.

But when his work was done thousands of people came to Bradford for the dedication ceremonies. Among them were Curtis D. Wilbur, secretary of the navy; Gov. Franklin S. Billings of Vermont; Mrs. Louisa Clark, widow of the gallant commander of the Oregon, Mrs. C. F. Hughes, his daughter, wife of Admiral C. F. Hughes, commander in chief of the United States navy, and many other notables. When they unveiled the monument there stood revealed the bronze figure of the navy hero, standing just as he so often stood on the bridge of the historic Oregon, and on the native Vermont stone base of the monument was a bronze tablet bearing the following inscription: "Rear Admiral Charles Edgar Clark, U. S. N. Born Bradford, Vermont, Aug. 10, 1843. Died Long Beach, California, Oct. 1, 1922—Entered Annapolis Naval Academy Sept. 20, 1860. With Farragut Battle Mobile Bay, Aug. 5, 1864. Race of U. S. S. Oregon from California to Florida Mar. 18-May 26, 1898. Battle of Santiago, Cuba, July 3, 1898."

This simple inscription tells only a small part of the life story of Charles Edgar Clark, the scion of an old New England family, born in the same town, among the hills of Vermont where his great-grandfather, emigrating from Roxbury, Mass., early in the Nineteenth century, had settled and where both his father and grandfather were born. Clark once expressed his love for his native state in these words, "From my earliest childhood I never wearied of watching the ever-changing aspect of the different mountains and I felt the general devotion to them all, not uncommon perhaps, to boys brought up among the hills; but Mount Lafayette was the special object of my admiration, and one of my first extravagances was the purchase of a small telescope to bring this wonderful mountain nearer." Strange that this boy from the hills should answer the call of the sea! But when he did, he carried with him his love for them and for their heroic traditions. He once confessed that, when confronted with the most difficult problem of his whole career, he found inspiration for his decision from the history of the gallant Vermonters who fought in the Revolution and the Civil war and his determination to hazard meeting the entire Spanish fleet single-handed at the time of the dash of the Oregon half-way around the world was in part the result of their heroic example.

Educated in the district schools of Bradford and the Bradford academy, Clark entered Annapolis at the age of seventeen and his twentieth birthday found him serving with the West Gulf blockading squadron. A year later he was following Farragut through the hell of gunfire which swept that commander's fleet when it steamed past the Confederate forts in Mobile bay. Although the Spanish-American war gave Clark his chance for world-wide fame, his superiors in the Navy department had known for a long time what sort of stuff was in him. In 1868 he was shipwrecked off the coast of British Columbia when the Suwanee foundered and, through the loss of his ranking officers, he found himself in command of the 33 survivors. He organized them into a defensive party to hold off 400 hostile Indians and did it until help arrived.

In 1892 occurred another incident which showed the heroic strain in him. This was the explosion and fire in the magazine of the Mare Island navy yard in which 14 persons were killed. Clark, the commander, was one of the first to arrive on the scene. Streams of water were being poured upon the smoking ruins of the brick filling house, and smoke was rising from the roof of No. 1 shell house in which all the small arm ammunition, fuses and boxes of detonators were stored. Clark immediately ordered another hose connected up and, carrying the nozzle himself, entered the building and put out the fire that had almost reached the wooden ammunition containers. Later it was found that there was enough powder there to have caused an explosion which would have doubled the casualty list, had the fire reached it, and the first to have been sent to death would have been Clark.

Step by step Clark had risen from lieutenant in 1867 to captain in 1896 and his career had been a varied one. He had served on Pacific, West Indian and Asiatic stations, he had been stationed at several navy yards, he had been an instructor at Annapolis and he had spent three years in surveying the northern Pacific coast and four years in lighthouse inspection. Outstanding in his record had been the qualities of trustworthiness and resourcefulness. One of the questions contained in the fitness reports on record in the Navy department is this one, "Would you as commander of a ship or squadron consider . . . a fit officer to be entrusted with hazardous and important duty?" In the fitness report on Clark, made in 1893, the replies made by his fellow officers was without an exception in the affirmative.

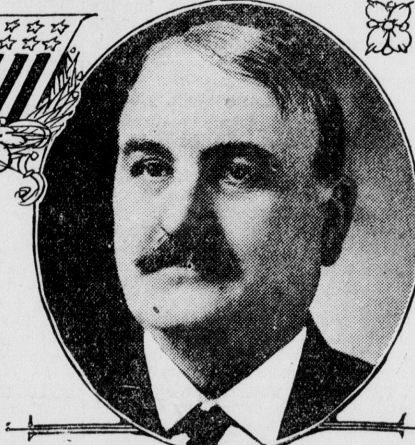

So it was something more than chance that he was selected to command the battleship Oregon in March, 1898, when her captain was disabled for service by illness, and to bring her on the 14,000-mile run from San Francisco to the vicinity of Cuba where the first rumblings of war between Spain and the United States had already been heard. On March 16 the Oregon set out on the voyage that was destined to become the longest emergency run undertaken up to that time by a modern battleship. Clark had had just 48 hours in which to make his preparations for the trip after taking command of the ship and when he had started he was strictly "on his own." For there was no radio in 1898 by which he could keep in constant touch with his superior officers, and in case the formal declaration of war took place while he was still en route it meant the sealing of all ports in which the Oregon might be repaired in case of emergency.

When he arrived at Rio Janeiro on April 30 he was told that war with Spain had been declared and that the whereabouts of the Spanish fleet under Admiral Cervera, which had left the Cape Verde islands, was unknown. There the Navy department placed upon him the responsibility of deciding whether the Oregon should remain safely at Rio Janeiro or proceed to Key West, and by doing so risk meeting the Spanish fleet in a battle in which the Oregon would be hopelessly outnumbered. Clark was not long in making his decision. He immediately started north! Ever since he had left San Francisco the prayers of the nation had followed the Oregon as she steamed forth upon her lonely voyage and when he left Rio Janeiro the national anxiety was increased. Then on May 24 there was nation-wide rejoicing when the word was flashed that the Oregon had arrived safely at Jupiter inlet in Florida. Here he was compelled to make another momentous decision. In order to join Admiral Sampson's fleet he would have to over-ride the opinion of his chief engineer who advised him to go to Norfolk navy yard to have the Oregon overhauled. The Navy department had authorized this action, but again Clark made the decision in favor of getting to the scene of action as quickly as possible, despite the danger involved. Twice he had been authorized and almost invited to step aside for the moment from the hazards of war and twice he declined to do so and risked his reputation in doing so. Had either decision resulted disastrously it is probable that the nation would have been as quick to damn him as it was to acclaim him when the event turned out as it did.

On May 26 the Oregon arrived at Key West.

STATUE TO REAR ADMIRAL CLARK

COL. HARRY PARKER

Clark had covered the 14,000 miles of water in 67 days, the longest and quickest trip of any battleship then afloat and still a world's record. Today a battleship could go from California to Florida through the Panama canal in 29 days. Despite the strain that had been put upon the Oregon's machinery by the killing pace, she arrived at Key West fit for immediate service and a few days later joined Sampson's fleet. The nation had only a few weeks to see the result of the efficiency of the Oregon in both the care of the ship itself and the training of her crew.

In the great naval battle of Santiago on Sunday morning, July 3, the Oregon played a leading part. As the Spanish vessels attempted to flee and pass the American battle line, it was the Oregon, following closely behind Commodore Schley's Brooklyn, which developed the wonderful burst of speed in excess of that called for in her contract which brought her alongside the Spanish ship Viscaya until that vessel, riddled by the gunfire of the two American ships gave up the fight. Then the Oregon joined in the chase of the Cristobal Colon which was fleeing westward, far ahead of the pursuing American ships. At 1:15 o'clock in the afternoon a 13-inch shell from the forward turret of the Oregon, on which Clark had stood during the entire engagement, crashed into the Colon. Fifteen minutes later the Spaniard made for the shore as evidence of his defeat. The battle was over. It had lasted exactly four hours.

Later in the war the Oregon steamed from New York to Manila where she was on duty during American operations in the Philippines. Clark was advanced six numbers in rank for his distinguished service during the war, and at the age of fifty-nine he was promoted to rear admiral. He was retired from active service in 1905 on his sixty-second birthday and until his death in 1922 was carried as a rear admiral on the retired list of the United States navy.

The Oregon also went into honorable retirement after her notable career. One of the high spots in her last days of service as a part of the reserve fleet of the Pacific squadron occurred in 1915 when she led the International Naval pageant staged at the time of the opening of the Panama canal. In memory of her famous trip from the Pacific to Cuban waters in 1898 she was given the distinction of being the first battleship to pass through the canal. On board at the time were high government officials and some of the men who served on board her in 1898, who had been allowed to re-enlist for this historic occasion. After the pageant the Oregon proceeded to California. She lay at anchor in San Francisco bay where she was visited by thousands of visitors to the Panama-Pacific exposition.

During her last years she was used as a training ship for young sailors. In 1918 she came back again to San Francisco, where she had been built in 1896, and there the valedictory of her active service was pronounced in the following press dispatch:

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., May 17.—"Good-by, dear old Oregon," was the sentiment voiced by hundreds of men, women and children during the last week of the Victory Liberty Loan campaign, when they visited the famous old battleship for the last time as she lay at anchor in San Francisco bay. Within a few weeks the grim fighter of nearly a quarter century ago will take her place with the Constitution in the hearts of the American people: the Oregon will go out of commission and become a memory.

Poisonous in Part

A word of warning: Many flowers are poisonous or semi-poisonous. Those of the daffodil, for instance, are powerfully emetic. It is not generally understood that many plants may be poisonous in one part. A striking example is the rhubarb, where only an inch or two at the top of the stem lies between the poisonous leaf and delicious stalk.

year's session for work is being anticipated by all those connected in any capacity with the diversified avenues of interest contiguous to the progress and development of the community.

This week will bring together the board members of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Niles grammar school, the Martha Washington Circle of Friends of the East Bay Girls' Service League and the Betsy Ross parlor of the Native Daughters of the Golden West.

The only other meeting of importance for this month is the reception to be given by the Parent-Teachers Association of the Washington Union high school for the teachers of the high school and the grammar schools and the members of the board of education. Definite plans will be announced later by Mrs. Robie of Alvarado, president of the association.

Next month will witness the opening of the Country Club of Washington Township with its annual luncheon at noon at the club house in Centerville. Mrs. R. Bendel, president, will have charge of all arrangements for the program.

Guild members of the Congregational church will also begin work next month. Mrs. A. A. Hatch, president, will announce names of hostesses for the first meeting in next week's Register.

Another of the large gatherings annually observed will be embodied in the bazaar to be staged by the Holy Ghost church at Centerville for three days, October 27, 28 and 29.

October, too, will include the annual masquerade ball of the Newark Bluebird club for the benefit of the Community Christmas tree. This is an organization of young women who find lots of time outside of business hours to do worthwhile things for their community. We are wondering what some of their particular projects are going to be this year.

And then there is Toyon Branch of the Baby Hospital of which we shall no doubt hear more later; likewise the Civic Club of Niles and later on the Washington Township Chapter of the American Red Cross—so as the well known walrus observed, "the time has come to talk of many things; of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages—and kings—and why the sea is boiling hot—and whether pigs have wings."

ATTEND JAPANESE RECEPTION
One of the enjoyable social events of the past week enjoyed by local people was the reception given to members of the Japanese training squadron by San Francisco and Oakland, guests including Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Richmond of Niles, Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Durham of Irvington, Mr. and Mrs. August May of Alvarado and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dusterberry of Centerville.

HOSPITALITY FOUND AT COBBLE CREST

Miss Kathryn J. O'Neill of St. Louis is visiting her cousin, Mrs. A. L. Juhl of Cobble Crest, off Niles Canyon, for two weeks. Miss Julia Aschmann of Niles was also a guest there last Sunday along with a group of friends who spent a most delightful afternoon and evening with these hospitable folk from the old South—Arkansas to be exact. Mrs. Juhl is rendering first aid at the cannery during season, administering bandages and salves on week days and good cheer and fried chicken to friends on Sundays. She's getting quite a reputation as a savior of forlorn little derelicts of the animal kingdom, too, her most recent acquisitions being a puppy rescued from drowning at the hands of some blood-thirsty young rascals not long ago and a coyote presented by a rancher the latter of which she is caring for until it reaches the age of discretion when it can be turned loose again.

And incidentally, if you are fortunate enough to be acquainted with this lady no more beautiful bit of scenery can be found in this part of the country than Cobble Crest and its surroundings—low-spread lodge upon a hill top and from its windows and terraces ranges of mountains and deep valleys; and within a most unusual collection of Indian relics, antique firearms, skins and other hunting trophies. And deer on the hills right at the front door!

CENTERVILLE WEDDING IS ELABORATE EVENT

Miss Helen M. Amaral became the bride of William C. Andrade at the Holy Ghost church, Centerville, on the morning of August 7, Rev. Father Alfred M. Souza officiating.

Many friends witnessed the ceremony after which a dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents, the guest list including relatives and members of the bridal party.

The couple left for their honeymoon to be spent in Oregon and upon return will occupy their newly constructed home in Centerville.

The church was elaborately decorated with white carnations and pink gladioli with a background of potted plants. The bride wore a gown of white georgette and lace with clusters of orange blossoms over white satin. Her veil was embroidered tulle. She carried a shower of white carnations.

Miss Evelyn A. Amaral was maid of honor, wearing pink taffeta and georgette. Her flowers were pink carnations.

Miss Mildred Andrade, niece of the groom, was ring bearer and wore a charming little frock of blue crepe de chine.

Mr. Joseph Andrade, brother of the groom, served as best man.

Miss Eva Costa rendered the nuptial music.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Amaral and granddaughter of Mrs. M. Jasper, a pioneer of Centerville. She graduated with the class of 1927 from the Washington Union High school. The groom is the son of Mrs. Anna Andrade also of Centerville.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS TO INSTALL NEW OFFICERS

Public installation of officers of the Betsy Ross Parlor, No. 238 Native Daughters of the Golden West will be held at Anderson's Hall Friday evening, following which will be the dedication of the parlor's new flag by Past Grand President Lee Owen. A social hour will be observed and refreshments served.

Officers to be installed are: Junior Past President—Leah Nunes. Past President—Iraa Rnack Moore. First Vice-president—Lucy B. Day. Second Vice-president—Alice Simas. Third Vice-president—May Alameda. Plans for the annual hallowe'en masquerade ball to be given by the Bluebird Club of Newark on October 29, were made at the last meeting, held at the home of the president, Frances Turnbow, Monday evening. This was the first meeting after a vacation of two months.

Proceeds of the masquerade will be used for the Newark Community Christmas tree, this being an annual contribution of the club to the town. Committees have been appointed to make necessary arrangements for securing the Newark pavilion and music. Details will be announced later.

Small Change of No Interest to Royalty

Louis Philippe of Bourbon, the French pretender, had a royal way of shopping. When the World war was at its height, he stalked into an expensive boot shop in London and ordered a dozen pairs of boots and shoes. The bootmaker wanted to suggest something on account, as the man was a stranger, but his remark that the bill would run to about $250 met with no response. So his wife tactfully asked for some money toward the cost of buying leather. The stranger pulled out a thick roll of treasury notes and handed it over. A week later he returned and "tried on." The result was satisfactory and the bootmaker inquired as to where to send the order.

"You may consign it to the king of France," he replied, and named his hotel. The order was delivered by messenger with a flowery letter in French, in which was enclosed $22.50, representing the amount overpaid. A day or two later a secretary appeared at the shop with the news that the king was incensed at the refund, adding affably that it would have been all the same if the balance had been on the other side.—Manchester Guardian.

The Electric Range does perfect frying

Because of evenly distributed heat

The frying of omelets, bacon and many other foods require evenly distributed heat under the frying pan. For then the food cooks perfectly, it looks more appetizing, and it tastes better.

That is why the Electric Range is ideal for frying. It has three different degrees of steady even heat that comes from closely wound coils.

And these new Electric Ranges are speedy.

So what is more enjoyable in the early morning than perfect frying plus speed!

Unselfishness First Requisite of All Organizations of Teachers

By HERBERT KELLEY, Pennsylvania Educator.

TEACHERS have a right to lobby in state legislatures and there are occasions when it is imperative that the right should be exercised. Teachers' organizations have as much right to maintain committees in state capitals during legislative sessions as labor, grange and other organizations, but it is not always expedient to exercise that right.

Teachers' organizations as a whole are altruistic in their purposes but to date the positive achievements of far too many of them consist of tax measures, salary schedules, tenure acts and retirement systems. These results, in the public mind, savor of advancing the interests of teachers rather than of promoting the education of the child.

By promoting the general educational welfare, by fostering professional zeal and by advancing educational standards, teachers will win the respect and good will of the tax-paying public, who in turn will gladly, through their representatives in the legislature, enact the provisions which will make them comfortable in their work. Salaries, tenure, and retirement allowances will come as a by-product of qualifications, efficiency and professional spirit. If we aim at the former we make recognition of the latter tardy and deficient.

Children in Home by No Means an Essential Part of Married Happiness

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK, University of Illinois.

Children are not always a comfort to a home nor do they always strengthen the love between man and wife as is commonly supposed. A home without children may still be a home. It is true that children may act as disciplinary agents to their parents; they may teach their elders economy and patience and unselfishness and self-control, but these virtues may be acquired by other and less strenuous means. The more I see what trouble and worry and sacrifice they entail upon their parents, the more I am resigned to my fate.

Youth is not always considerate of old age. It has its own serious problems to solve and even when it gives its attention to old age, it not infrequently does it grudgingly. Even if one has children, he cannot take it for granted that his old age will be a sheltered one. Besides while old age is beautiful, it is not always docile.

With young married people, when the child comes, too often all the sentiment, the tender love, the little attentions that each showered upon the other, goes to the child. Everything must give way to the child.

Childless pairs growing old together have many compensations for their failure to have children. Having only each other, if true love has brought them together, the lack of children draws them still closer.—American Magazine.

Progress of Humanity Shown to Be Parallel With Growth of the Brain

By DR. FREDERICK TILNEY, Columbia University.

When the brains of all the prehistoric men we know are placed side by side, there is not a question of a doubt about progress and development, which is sufficient to convince the most skeptical. There is a definite increase in the width of the brain, expanding those areas which have to do with sensation and the part of the brain which has to do with the higher faculties of reason and judgment.

There can be little doubt that the progress of humanity has run parallel with the growth of the brain. From one age to another and from one race to the next man has shown a steady gain in his power to control material conditions. Where he has stood still or perhaps even fallen behind is in learning to control his own nature.

The human cerebrum certainly marks the advance of the intelligence step by step, and yet, for the most part, the human cerebrum is looked upon as a finished product. Its evolutionary history does not bear out this view. It makes it seem much more probable that the brain of modern man is an intermediate stage in the ultimate differentiation of the master organ of life. In this sense the prehistoric brain is of more than antiquarian interest. It has a definite and living bearing upon the future progress of the race.

Idle to Imagine General Disarmament Will Put End to All Warfare

By DR. OSCAR JASZI, Oberlin College Professor.

Too much stress is being laid on the limitation of armaments in the pursuit of world peace. Disarmament is a good thing, and is a step in the right direction. But disarmament alone will hardly be effective in an age when great armies and navies can be built up, as was shown in the late war, within a few months. For our great capitalist states the building up of a great war machine is simply a question of proper organization, and can be accomplished in an astonishingly short time.

The next war will be one in which whole civilizations will be destroyed by perhaps a few thousand men working in laboratories, who will be able to carry on the most terrifying and awful conflict in the history of the world by the use of newly discovered biological and chemical facts.

If there were a real desire for peace on the part of the great nations of the world they would be entering into agreements to cease their efforts to develop in the laboratory terrible weapons of science for the destruction of their future enemies.

Educated Laity Church's Need to Overcome Assaults Upon Religion

By BISHOP CHARLES P. ANDERSON, Episcopal.

Religion is under attack these days. It always has been. It thrives under attack.

If the layman were better informed on the essential contents of the Christian religion, he would be less disturbed by assaults upon it. This requires knowledge. A speaking acquaintance with the cardinal verities would enable him to recognize that the men who so often are set up and knocked down by the antagonists of religion are men of straw rather than of God.

I plead for an educated laity. The church does not bid her members beware of learning and scholarship. She does not say "shoo" to them when they dip into science. History and reason are among her courts of appeal.

The Rice Growers' Association of California announces there will be a decrease of approximately 16,000 acres of rice in Glenn and Colusa counties. Last year Colusa had 30,370 acres of rice and this season the estimates give 8,500 less. In Glenn County there were 30,192 acres in 1926 against 22,000 in 1927.

With large bunches of good beef cattle becoming scarce, there is every indication of steady market conditions for the rest of the season. This is according to a report issued by the Western Cattle Marketing Association (formerly The California Cattleman's Association), San Francisco.

An announcement was made last week by the Golden State Milk Products Company of the purchase of the capital stock of the National Dairy Company of San Francisco. The National Dairy Company is one of the old established dairies of San Francisco, having been formed by an amalgamation of certain pioneer milk concerns in 1912.

Packing for green shipments of Thompson seedless grapes is to open in the Exeter district, Tulare County, this week, later than usual, this season, due to poor maturing conditions. Kern County has been shipping Thompsons during the last week.

Premium lists for all departments of the San Joaquin County Fair, to be held in Stockton, August 23rd to 28th inclusive, are now ready for distribution and will be mailed upon application to Secretary-Manager E. G. Vollmann, Stockton.

The harvesting of the Shafter potato crop is practically over. The total number of carloads shipped out this season was not as large as it was a year ago, but prices were good and most of the growers have made money. It is reported that, due to aphid infestations, the potato yield in most of the potato-growing sections of the State has been lighter than usual.

San Luis Obispo county will open its fair this year, August 25 to 27, with more exhibits than ever, according to the fair board, and it now appears that there will be more than 1000 birds entered. There is no entrance fee, but prizes for winning poultry, rabbits and pigeons will be given. Exhibits from ten of the Farm Centers of the county will be made.

Checks amounting to $20 per ton for each ton of grade A peaches delivered to the California Peach and Fig Growers from the 1926 crop by grower members were mailed to growers last week, according to an announcement by Emil Gundelfinger, executive manager of the association. The payment is the second to be made on the 1926 crop of peaches handled by the association, and represents a progress payment made possible through the sale of the association's goods through Sunland Sales Co-operative Association.

An unexpectedly high figure was reached during June in pay checks received by the dairymen of the Tulare district. The monthly payroll reached $320,971.84, about $20,000 more than for the previous month. Instead of dropping as has been the case in the past, an increase in production was noted. Sweet cream brought 49 to 54 cents; churning cream, 46 cents, while milk was 58½ to 60 cents.

About seventy-five cars of watermelons have left McFarland to date, and it is probable that there will be twenty-five more before the season is over. Fifteen cars of cantaloupes have been shipped, and it is expected that this will close the car shipments for this season, although there are several more plantings which will soon be ripe, but which will probably be trucked out.

The state-wide effort to place the giant prune industry on a staple basis has failed. Frank Abernathy, president of the California Prune Producers in a statement issued at San Jose declared that only 37,888 acres of prune land has been signed up of the 49,011 acres required. He stated that the campaign for the prune pool was at an immediate end and that no further attempt would be made to form the proposed merger between the growers and the packers.

Under the supervision of Wing & Paulo of Red Bluff, 2,100 head of choice Spring lambs belonging to C. Fred Holmes of Gerber, Modoc County, consigned to eastern markets. These lambs, dropped in March in the Sacramento Valley and ranged in Modoc County near the California-Oregon state line, averaged eighty-four pounds per head. Lambs produced in this section during the present season are running from five to ten pounds heavier than last year.

That no slackening of Californians' appetites for salads is expected by truck farmers in the state is indicated in reports of "intentions to plant" filed with the California Co-operative Crop Reporting Service. If all growers who expect to plant Fall lettuce this year follow out their intentions, there will be a total of 21,230 acres sown, as contrasted with 19,670 acres a year ago.

It is hoped that by crossing the wild sugar beet with the present domestic beet, its two greatest diseases, leaf spot and curly top, will be exterminated. The department of agriculture has tested more than 500 strains of beet for resistance to leaf spot, and more than 638 for curly top. Dr. Coons of the department has made extensive studies with the wild sugar beet and he holds that this beet will bring about the curing of the two beet diseases.

The third year of soft pork alfalfa tests carried on by the University of California College of Agriculture at Davis Farm, has just been started under the direction of Professor E. H. Hughes. It is planned to feed the pigs so as to have them gain a pound a day, with alfalfa, barley, and skim milk as the chief factors. Definite conclusions are expected at the end of this year.

The Sixth Annual Rice Day program of the University of California at Cortena, Colusa County, will take place September 16 this year, according to an announcement by Professor S. H. Beckett of the Division of Irrigation Investigations who has been appointed chairman of the rice committee.

A word of advice concerning the danger of allowing asparagus roots to dry out, or of pruning them at the time of planting has just been made public by Dr. H. A. Jones of the Division of Truck Crops, and Dr. W. W. Robbins, professor of botany of the University of California. They found that roots of the same stock when pruned yielded 302 pounds to the acre, when allowed to dry out before planting, 250 pounds to the acre, but when left unpruned, and carefully guarded against desiccation, they yielded 560 pounds to the acre.

Infestation of a portion of a Tulare County orchard with peach rust marks the first invasion of that disease in this county, and growers are asked to report any appearance of the new disease to either the farm bureau or horticultural office. During the winter the rust lives in twigs or limbs, where it is hidden under an incision or slit about one-quarter of an inch long. In the Spring the incision bursts open, and the rust comes out in greater numbers to damage trees and crops.

Lemon prices for Tulare County fruit have hit a new high point, according to Leslie Nuckolls, formerly of Terra Bella and now in the fruit buying business at Paso Robles. A few weeks ago Nuckolls reported that Tulare County lemons could be purchased for as low as 25 cents a box, while the fruit is selling in New York now for as high as $10 a box and in Los Angeles for $7.50.

Miss Henrietta G-10, a white leg-horn, owned by Mrs. L. A. Thornehill of Santa Cruz, is the world's prize laying hen with an official record of 353 eggs for the year just ended—August 1st, 1926, to July 31st, 1927. Mrs. Thornehill's prize hen refused to lay only seven days out of the entire year. This hen won the world's record from a hen in British Columbia holding a record of 351 eggs for the year.

Work began last week in operating the alfalfa mill at Gerber, Tehama County, and about 3,000 tons of alfalfa will be ground up this season. The mill was recently bought by Russell & Macaulay of Sacramento. It is the largest alfalfa meal mill in the West Coast section and while the capacity may be less than some of the big mills of the Middle West section there is no record of a larger milling machine. The mill will employ from 20 to 25 men and maintain a payroll in excess of $500 per week. The product from this mill is used as body filler for poultry and stock mash and is wholesaled all over the United States to manufacturers of these products.

According to Farm Advisor J. Quail the finest cotton in Merced County is being grown by Martin Conner of the Ballico section of the State Land Settlement Colony at Delhi. This is just being grown as an experiment as the question always is, "what can I rotate with alfalfa, keep the weeds down, and still pay me for the extra cultivation necessary to get rid of the heavy alfalfa roots." This plot of ground is visible proof that cotton does well here in conjunction with general farming.

News of Interest to All

Bids for the first two buildings to be constructed under the terms of the $6,000,000 bond issue voted the University of California by the people of the State in November, were asked last week by the Board of Regents. The buildings will serve as library and administration building, and as classroom and auditorium building on the new Los Angeles campus of the University at Westwood. One-half of the bond issue will be spent in Los Angeles, and a Mediterranean style of architecture has been adopted. Plans for the new building at Berkeley to match the present permanent structures are now under consideration.

The sixty-ninth fall registration of the University of California at Berkeley opened Friday morning, August 12. This registration marked the inauguration of a new policy concerning admissions. Starting this year no matriculation examination for students without high school recommendations will be offered except in a few limited courses such as music, bookkeeping and mechanic arts. Such students will be required to present certificates of examination from the College Entrance Board which examines once a year in June. The registration on the Berkeley campus this year is expected to be about the same as last year, 9,803.

A section of a California redwood tree, 9 feet, 8 inches in diameter was speeding southward last week on the first lap of its Paris-bound trip. The relic is to be the gift of the State of California and the American Legion to the war veterans of France and will be presented when the Legion convenes there September 19 to 24.

The San Joaquin County Fair grounds is a beehive of activity, with preparations in full swing for the annual fair to be held in Stockton, August 23rd to 28th, inclusive. Two large new permanent buildings to accommodate race horses and livestock have already been completed and construction has been started on the new pavilion to house the poultry show. It will be 50x150 feet in size, affording 500 feet of floor space more than the building used for the poultry show in former years.

The duty of hanging three men will be among the first tasks facing the newly appointed warden, James B. Holohan, now sheriff of Santa Cruz County, when he takes office at San Quentin Penitentiary, September 1st. Execution dates of three men were received at the prison last week following denial of their appeals. The day Holohan officially takes the reins, Joseph Sandoval, convicted of murder in Ventura County, is expected to be hanged. Earl Clark, convicted in Los Angeles County, is to be hanged on September 23rd. October 7th was set as the date on which Milan Vukich, convicted in Placer County, will be hanged.

Preliminary plans for the erection of a $1,000,000 neuro-psychiatric hospital in Southern California for mentally incompetent disabled war veterans were announced last week at a conference between Richard C. Queen, State commander of Disabled American Veterans of the World War, and other officials of that organization. The first steps toward the actual establishment of the hospital, according to Commander Queen, will be taken after the expert opinion of officials of the State and various county medical associations has been obtained. Lay members of the veterans' organization have already discussed the matter and will launch an active program for construction as soon as plans have been approved by the medical world.

Midway Gas Company has applied to the Railroad Commission, in a supplemental application, for authority to purchase the properties of Central Counties Gas Company, Hanford Gas and Power Company, River Bend Gas and Water Company, and Valley Natural Gas Company, and to sell its own properties and those of the companies which it proposes to acquire, to Southern California Gas Company, the supplemental application being substituted for the application now on file at the Railroad Commission for permission for Southern California Gas Company to purchase all these companies in the first instance. In its supplemental application Southern California Gas Company states that the new method of acquiring these subsidiary companies will permit a more economical financing. Southern California Gas Company proposes, and asks permission of the Railroad Commission for authority, to issue $26,765,000.00 of Series "B" five and one-half per cent first and refunding gold bonds, and to use the proceeds to finance the purchase of the acquired companies, and for additions and betterments.

California's forests this year have suffered less loss from fire than for many seasons past, according to the mid-season report of State Forester M. B. Pratt, filed last week with Fred G. Stevenot, director of the department of natural resources. The total is placed at $216,722. Location notice filed with the Kern County recorder by S. Agaitia, reveals the existence, according to the document, of gold and silver ore in the San Antonio mining district, three miles west of Lincoln Highway. The locator claims the full width of 300 feet allowing on each side of the vein.

Ground was broken last week for the first unit of the new $300,000 building to be erected at the southeast corner of Fifth and Lucas streets, Los Angeles, for the Eye and Ear Hospital, Inc. This event is expected to be an important step toward providing Los Angeles with one of the most modern hospitals in the country wherein ample provision will be made for treating the eyes, ears, noses and throats of the city's indigent.

Construction work on a new $500,000 hotel for Tia Juana Hot Springs, Lower California, has been started, according to an announcement made by Wert G. Bowman, president of the Agua Caliente Company in San Diego. The hostelry will be of the old mission type and on the present site of the old Hot Springs Hotel, which will be torn down. Plans call for completion of the work by Thanksgiving Day, when a formal opening will be held.

Mrs. Roy Dardier of San Francisco, acting through her husband, Harold Dardier, has contracted to purchase for $160,000 from Mrs. Alice Bawden of Caliente, nineteen claims comprising the famous Amalia and Paris-Eclipse gold mines in the Lorraine district, thirty miles east of Bakersfield in the Sierra Nevada Range. Papers covering the transaction have been filed in escrow with the Bank of Italy Branch there, after being recorded in the hall of records.

California's handsome building at the Nevada Highway Exposition grounds in Reno, Nevada, has been formally turned over to the Reno post of the American Legion. In future it will be the headquarters for the various veterans' organizations of that city. The structure cost about $70,000 and will be in future maintained by the American Legion posts of Nevada. It is of the mission type of architecture.

Construction has started on a $1,000,000 limit-height, class A, store and office building at 615 South Olive streets, Los Angeles. The foundation excavating has just been completed by excavating contractors, and workmen are now busily engaged placing forms for the concrete footings and basement walls. Pouring of concrete will be started this week, the P. J. Walker Company reports, and every effort will be made to have the structure completed within record time.

That many of the fruits of Luther Burbank's labors would be given to the world long after his death was well known when the naturalist died. Since his death experts have been carrying on some of his unfinished work, and announcement was made last week that following tests and experiments at the Burbank Experimental Farm for the past several months, 108 new varieties of plums and 32 new varieties of cherries are to be given to the world.

A sheepherder whose name the authorities failed to get was struck by lightning last week near Likely, Modoc County, as he sought refuge from a storm under a tree. The bolt tore off the man's clothing, ripped his right shoe to shreds, fused a legging buckle into a thin strand of wire and left him unconscious but living. He was revived by rangers and, though severely burned on the back and legs, was able to walk about without assistance.

No sign that says "For Women Only" will adorn the bathing beauty parade at Santa Monica in October when real estate men of California will gather for their annual state convention. Male realtors of the state, whether they are fat, thin, tall, short, bushy haired or just bald, have been invited to participate in a men's beauty parade to be held on the beach boardwalk.

The State Railroad Commission last week began the task of refunding more than $25,000 at the rate of $50 each to 501 truck lines, which had paid in the money to the commission as filing fees for permits to operate throughout the State. A decision of the United States Supreme Court some time ago held that private contract carriers were not under the jurisdiction of the commission, and for that reason the money is being returned.

A new California industry, made possible by the development of new machinery, is announced at the Johns-Manville Corporation plant at Pittsburg, this State. Quantity production is to begin at once on a new type of permanent fireproof asbestos shingle and special patented new machinery has been installed. High hydraulic pressures are made possible with the new equipment, which will produce a rigid shingle made of asbestos and Portland cement in new shapes, including hexagonal, and in several permanent colors. The hexagonal shingle originated in France but it is being widely adopted in this country because it gives an entirely new appearance to the roof, harmonizing particularly with modern American adaptations of the established styles and also because of the unusual color effects possible.

Motorists visiting Yosemite National Park should bear in mind that the new speed limit of 40 miles an hour, made effective by State law, is not applicable to roads in Yosemite, says a statement issued this week by the California State Automobile Association. According to George S. Grant, manager of the Association Touring Bureau, many motorists have been running afoul of the Federal government regulations in the valley under the erroneous impression that the 40 mile limit prevailed there. Regulations fixed by the National Park Service are the rules of the road there.

TOWNSHIP BRIEFS

CENTERVILLE

Mrs. Emily Moury and Mrs. N. Barber of Los Angeles are visiting friends in this section for some weeks.

Captain T. Oakes of the City of San Francisco, Panama mail motor ship came in last week but his stay was short and he is on his way again. His friends wish his stay might be longer.

Mrs. J. Moury, Mrs. F. O. Bunting and Lawrence Bunting Jr., spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Overacker at St. Helena this week.

Find Cathedral Ruins in Greenland Colony

Within a hundred miles of Cape Farewell, at Julianehaab, in Greenland, lie the remains of the greatest Scandinavian cathedral except that of old Trondhjem in Norway.

Doctor Norland of Copenhagen has been spending some time making excavations there, and he found the foundations of the cathedral. They are nearly a hundred feet long.

In one of the chapels of the cathedral the body of a bishop has been found in full canonicals, with a ring on the finger and a crook made of walrus tusks. He probably lived about 1200 A. D.

Perhaps even more interesting than the cathedral is the episcopal palace close by. It must have been the largest building in Greenland except the home of the founder of the colony, Eric the Red, at Brattalid. The front is 160 feet long. The palace and its outhouses cover three acres, and there is accommodation for a hundred cattle as well as for horses, sheep and pigs.

It is realized that the old Greenland settlement was on a bigger scale than has hitherto been supposed. There must have been three or four thousand farms.

Nail Used in Homes of Prehistoric Man

When you drive a nail into your wall to hang a picture on, do you ever pause to think that you are using something with a history almost as old as that of humanity itself?

A nail, over two and a half pounds in weight, and thick in proportion, was found in the ruins of Troy. And similar enormous nails have been recovered from the remains of lake dwellings and other places where prehistoric man made his home.

All nails were originally made at home. Then, when the smith became a specialist craftsman, he made the nails of the community, until a special nail-smith started in business. In the Fifteenth century there was a guild of nail-smiths in Augsburg.

The first nail-making machine was invented in Britain at the end of the Eighteenth century, and a little later the first nail factories were at work in Birmingham.

Bad Peddler Made Good

The yarns about Yankee clock peddlers are legion. Perhaps the most amusing is the one about the peddler who always sold a clock on the understanding that he would return in a few weeks, and, if the clock did not run satisfactorily, would replace it with another. It was also his rule to sell all the clocks in his stock but one. When he reached the end of his route he turned back with his one remaining clock. At the first house the clock he had sold did not run, so he replaced it with the one that remained. At the second house he replaced the unsatisfactory clock with the one he had taken from the first house. And so on he went, selling and replacing clocks that never would work, and waxing fat on the proceeds!—From "Hawkers and Walkers," by Richardson Wright

First Teetotal Pledge

On the death of Thomas Cook, founder of the famous tourist agency, his executors presented the piece of paper on which was written the first teetotal pledge, a document he greatly prized, to the late Sir George Williams, founder of the Y. M. C. A., who was at the time president of the Banc of Hope union. On September 1, 1932, this pledge will reach its centenary, for it is just over 94 years since seven advocates of total abstinence from intoxicating liquors signed their names under the following pledge: "We agree to abstain from all liquors of an intoxicating quality, whether ale, porter, wine, or ardent spirits, except as medicine."

Rodin's Masterpiece

The original statue of Rodin's "The Thinker," a small statue intended to have been placed over a doorway, is in the Rodin museum, in France. The first cast in heroic size, displayed originally in 1904, was purchased by the French government and stands in front of the Pantheon in Paris. There are five others, all made from the original mold, on this continent. One stands at the entrance of the Cleveland Museum of Art, one in Golden Gate park, San Francisco, another in Baltimore, the fourth at the Detroit Institute of Arts, and the fifth in Buenos Aires.

PERSONALS

There are three perfect things in a man's life; The garden he planned and never planted; the home he dreamed of and never built; and the woman he loved and never married.

Wizard Takes a Chance

Trial by ordeal is commonly practiced on the Solomon Islands, though it is not always the alleged culprit who submits to the ordeal. One form of ordeal is for a wizard to swim across a channel infested with crocodiles. If the medicine man survives the swim, the suspect is held innocent, but if the crocodiles eat the wizard the accused is pronounced guilty and is punished, according to Robert W. Williamson in "The Ways of the South Sea Savage."

Darwin's Life Work

Darwin, the famous expounder of the theory of evolution, was born in 1809, the son of a physician of Shrewsbury, England. From 1831 to 1836 he made his voyage round the world in the Beagle, on which he was the naturalist. In 1859 he published his great work, "Origin of Species." Subsequently he elaborated and defended his theory. Among these works was the "Descent of Man." He died in 1882.

Curiosity Wins

"Look here," began the youth, as he entered a butcher's shop and displayed two lovely-looking black-and-blue eyes, "you have fresh beef for sale?"

"I have," responded the butcher. "And fresh beef is good for black eyes, is it not?"

"It is."
"Very well. I have the eyes, you have the beef. Do you think you can sell me a pound or so without asking how I got ornamented?"

"I'll do my best, sir."
The butcher cut off the meat and received his money without another look at his customer. At the last moment, however, the old Adam proved too strong for him.

"Look here," he said, handing back the cash, "I'll make you a present of the beef. Now tell me all about the fight."
